Lockdown Stress and Unlock Happiness

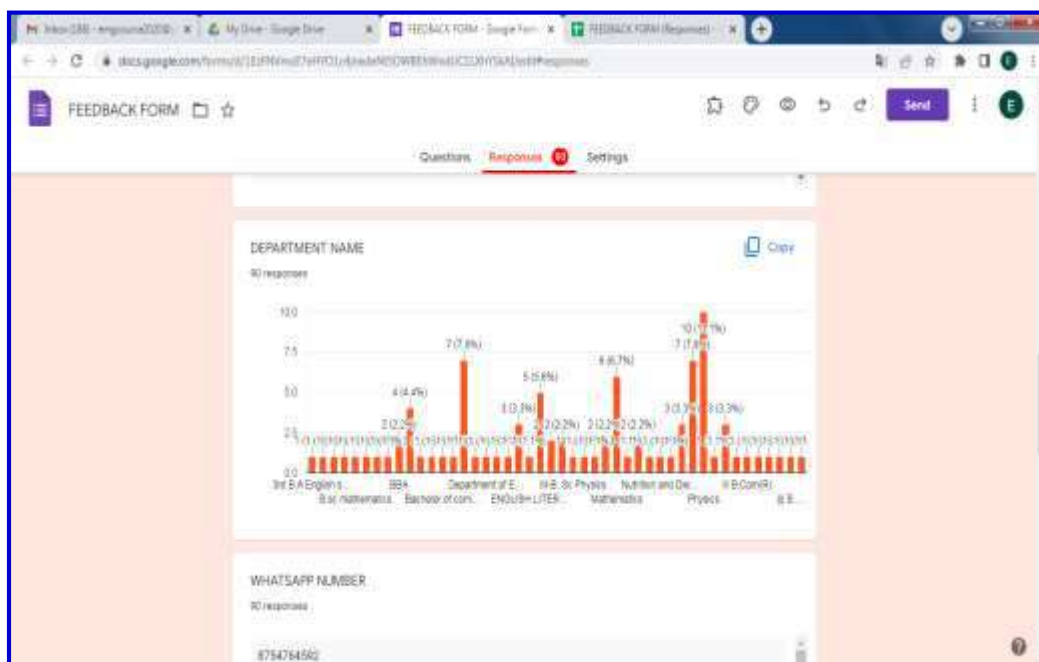

Objectives:

This study aimed longitudinally to analyse the role played by two emotional regulating strategies (cognitive reappraisal and expressive suppression), mediating its effect by engaging in pleasant activities during lockdown. Considering the changes in affective and cognitive happiness in comparison with pre-pandemic levels, participants were evaluated on emotional regulation, cognitive and affective happiness

Programme Outcome:

Students were able to identify the specific tactics and strategies used in order to achieve their desired goals. Students and families were not only deprived of their academics, work, and sport activities, but also from mobility, interaction and relationship. The parents had to manage their children at home from 24 h a day and, at the same time, most of them had to start smart-working from home, apart from carrying out their children's college commitments. Students were frustrated being locked within their home. Because they were not able to talk, see, chat and play with their friends and relatives. It is easy to understand how families have been exposed to a very strong emotional and psychological stress.

The slide is titled "DC Virtualisation-Simplified (Dedicated/Bare metal)". It features a diagram illustrating the transition from physical servers to virtual machines. On the left, under the heading "Physical Servers", there is a stack of five server icons labeled "Server 1", "Server 2", "Server 3", "Server 4", and "Server 5". A blue arrow points from this stack to a larger stack of virtual machines on the right, under the heading "Virtual Servers on Virtual Machines". This stack includes "VM 1", "VM 2", "VM 3", "VM 4", and "VM 5". Below the VM stack, a single server icon is labeled "High Performance Server". To the right of the VM stack, there is a small icon of a person and the text "VMware". At the bottom of the slide, it says "High Performance Server" and "High Performance CPU 300".
